Opioid overdose problem
critical in Hancock County

Cmdr. Ben Taylor, director of the Hancock County Sheriff's Narcotics Division, reviews drug overdose statistics at his office in the Hancock County Justice Facility on Friday.

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Hancock County has among the most drug overdoses per year statewide, and the Hancock County Sheriff's Office has revamped its narcotics unit to create a response protocol and hold those responsible for providing the narcotics accountable.

"Currently, Hancock County is consistently in the top three counties for drug overdoses, and we often lead," Cmdr. Benjamin Taylor, director of the Hancock Sheriff's Narcotics Division, said last week.

"Right now, it fluctuates (month to month) between us, Harrison County and Pearl River County," Taylor said. "And it's not per capita, it's not a percentage, it's literally one-to-one."

The latest U.S. Census data indicates that Harrison County has 206,169 residents, and Hancock County has 47,339.

"When you look at it from a per capita standpoint," Taylor said, "we're way higher."

One of the biggest reasons for the opioid overdoses in recent months, Taylor said, is the prevalence of drug traffickers adding fentanyl to heroin or other narcotics without the users' knowledge to enhance the potency of the drugs.

Fentanyl is a synthetic opioid which is 80-100 times stronger than morphine.

Because of its potency and low cost, drug

Hancock County Sheriff Ricky Adam on Monday announced the recovery of human remains in a wooded area of NASA's Stennis Space Center Buffer Zone.

On Saturday, Adam said in a press release issued Monday, "Hancock County Sheriff's deputies and criminal investigators responded to a wooded area north of Interstate 10 and Stennis Space Center's south gate, after workers contracted by the Forestry Service reported the discovery of human remains. The Buffer Zone is a heavily wooded area, spanning several miles, surrounding the Space Center. The workers were contracted to conduct a controlled burn of the area.

Waveland receives funding for Phase I of proposed marina project

Last week, Waveland Mayor Mike Smith announced that the city was awarded $350,000 in Public Trust Tideland funds and $2 million from the Mississippi pi Legislature to fund Phase I of the Waveland Marina project.

The funding from the Tideland Grant is to be used for the planning and design assistance of the marina, a letter from Mississippi Department of Marine Resources

Executive Director Joe Spraggins states.

According to the city's project description the "Waveland Marina will establish the waterfront as the community's heart and reinvigorate the soul of its citizens. It will help restore the vitality taken from it by Hurricane Katrina and the BP Oil Spill disaster. The Marina is a 'generational' project that will breathe new life into the city."

Waveland is the only community the Gulf Coast that does not have a public marina.

According to the project description, construction will consist of a new boat launch, 60 boat slip marina, and a "one of a kind open air seafood market that cannot be found anywhere else on the Gulf Coast."

The marina is expected to cover 400 feet of waterfront surrounding the Veterans Memorial, extending out 700 feet and dredged to a depth of 11 feet to accommodate larger craft.

Other proposed amenities include:

- Floating docks
- Breakwater
- Two boat launches
- Parking
- Fuel services

The city worked with Gulf Regional Planning Commission to provide a benefit cost analysis with the following findings:

- Creation of eight new jobs
- $4.26 to $1 benefit to cost ratio

Human trafficking seminar

District Attorney Crosby Parker speaks last week at the Hancock County Courthouse in downtown Ba St. Louis during a Human Trafficking awareness training seminar hosted by the Department of Justice and the Department of Public Safety. “We were pleased to host over 60 professionals, including law enforcement, CPS, and victim advocates to participate” in the event, Parker said. The training was focused on increasing awareness of these crimes on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and to ensure a team approach in prosecuting and holding the offenders accountable.

THREE OLA 2018 GRADS RECEIVE HIGHEST UM ACADEMIC AWARD

Three of Our Lady Academy (OLA) 2018 graduates, Sarah Deano, Kiley Jacob, and Camille Martin were among the more than 60 University of Mississippi students to receive a 2022 Marcus Elvis Taylor Memorial Medal, the university's highest academic award. The Taylor Medals were established at University of Mississippi in 1904 by Dr. William A. Taylor of Booneville in memory of his son, an honored 1871 alumnus of the university. Only the top 1 percent of all Ole Miss students receives this award each year. Sarah and Kiley are pursuing degrees in Accountancy from the Patterson School of Accountancy. Camille is pursuing a degree in Biological Science from the College of Liberal Arts. From left, Camille Martin, Kiley Jacob, and Sarah Deano.

Lilian Le Initiated into Omicron Delta Kappa

SEA COAST ECHO

Lilian Le, a native of Bay Saint Louis, was recently initiated into the Emory University Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, the National Leadership Honor Society. The Society welcomed 578 new initiates from 25 universities during March 2022.

Students initiated into the Society must be sophomores, juniors, seniors, or graduate/professional students in the top 35% of their class, demonstrate leadership experience in at least one of the five pillars, and embrace the ODK ideals. Fewer than five percent of students on a campus are invited to join each year.

Omicron Delta Kappa Society, the National Leadership Honor Society, was founded in Lexington, Virginia, on December 3, 1914. A group of 15 students and faculty members established the Society to recognize and encourage leadership at the collegiate level. The founders established the ODK Idea—the concept that individuals representing all phases of collegiate life should collaborate with faculty and others to support the campus and community. ODK's mission is to honor and develop leaders; encourage collaboration among students, faculty, staff, and alumni; and promote ODK's leadership values of collaboration, inclusivity, integrity, scholarship, and service on college and university campuses throughout North America. The Society's national headquarters are located in Lexington, Virginia.

Camille Martin Inducted into Phi Beta Kappa

SEA COAST ECHO

Camille Martin, of Bay Saint Louis, MS, graduating with a B.A. in Biological Science, was among the more than 80 University of Mississippi students who were inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest and most prestigious undergraduate honors organization in the liberal arts. The university held an induction ceremony on April 8, 2022, at the Gertrude C. Ford Ole Miss Student Union Ballroom on campus.

"Phi Beta Kappa embodies the ideal of a liberal arts education - an education suited for free people," said Neil Manson, professor of philosophy and 2022 president of the Beta of Mississippi chapter. "Rather than training merely to be specialists, members have shown a desire to become broadly educated across an array of humanistic disciplines. In addition to being intrinsically worthwhile, public and private sector employers see such an education as a valuable commodity."

Manson said he remembered his own induction 32 years ago as one of the proudest moments of his educational career.

Phi Beta Kappa membership is an honor conferred upon fewer than 10% of each graduating class. Students do not apply for membership but are elected by the chapter after a review of the academic records of each eligible candidate.

Election is based on good character and a distinguished record of scholarly performance in courses that demonstrate a broad exposure to the liberal arts, i.e., the fine arts, humanities, languages, mathematics, natural sciences and social sciences, as well as substantial work in areas outside the major.

While students are usually selected for membership during their senior year, juniors or graduate students may also be chosen. The University of Mississippi chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was chartered on April 6, 2001, and is in an elite group of fewer than 300 colleges and universities in the nation that shelter a chapter.

The University of Mississippi, known as Ole Miss, is the state's flagship university. Included in the elite group of R1: Doctoral Universities - Highest Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification, it has a long history of producing leaders in public service, academics and business. Its 16 academic divisions include a major medical school, nationally recognized schools of accountancy, law and pharmacy, and an Honors College acclaimed for a blend of academic rigor, experiential learning and opportunities for community action. Recognized among the nation's most beautiful, Ole Miss' main campus is in Oxford, which is routinely acknowledged as one of the country's best college towns.

Hancock Narcotics Agents arrest two in Bay

ECHO STAFF

Hancock County Sheriff's Narcotics Agents this week arrested two Bay St. Louis residents for alleged narcotics possession.

Terry McCullum, 39, and Samantha Haas, 24, were both arrested on Tuesday, Hancock Sheriff Ricky Adam said in a press release Wednesday.

On Tuesday, agents "executed a search warrant at McCullum's residence in the 110 block of Old Spanish Trail, following an investigation into his drug trafficking activities," Adam said. "A search of the residence revealed a felony amount of methamphetamine 'ice.' McCullum, who was not present at the time of the search warrant, was located and arrested with Haas, by narcotics agents at a local casino. McCullum and Haas were both in possession of methamphetamine 'ice' at the time appeared to be clothed in male items, however, sex and race has not been determined. The individual was clothed in a red/maroon colored shirt, light colored blue jeans, white Nike tennis shoes (possibly Air Force Ones), a Louis Vuitton belt and a silver Louis Vuitton wristwatch. Further examination revealed the individual had internal hardware and screws surgically placed on the left cheekbone and orbital area."

The sheriff's office is asking the public's help to identify the person. Any information should be reported to the Hancock County Sheriff's Criminal Investigations Division at 228-466-6910.

dealers have been mixing fentanyl with other drugs including heroin, methamphetamine, and cocaine, increasing the likelihood of a fatal interaction, according to the US. Drug Enforcement Agency.

"This year in Hancock County, we've had at least 31 overdoses since Jan. 1," Taylor said, "and there have been about 12 fatal overdose cases."

Even more of those cases would have been fatal, Taylor said, if Hancock deputies and Bay St. Louis and Waveland police officers hadn't all started keeping Narcan with them at all times.

Narcan is a brand name for the prescription medicine Naloxone, which is used for the treatment of a known or suspected opioid overdose emergency. It is approved by the FDA to rapidly reverse opioid overdose symptoms.

You can now get it at local pharmacies without a prescription.

"Years ago, it was issued for officer safety, in case an officer accidentally came into contact with fentanyl or some other substance," Taylor said, "but now we're using it for citizens."

Taylor said there have been several reports of drug activities at local schools.

Taylor said it's important to talk to your children about the risks and dangers inherent in drug use, and the toll opioids have been taking on the local population.

"They have vape pens now that can even look like a USB thumb drive," Taylor said, "so parents may or may not know that's what their kid has."

Taylor said the chemicals in the vape pens aren't being mixed by pharmacists or doctors, they're being created by drug dealers — you don't know what's in them or what they could do to you.

"About a month ago, there was a student with a THC vape pen at a local high school," who ended up having to go to the hospital, Taylor said.

To cope with the situation, he said, the Hancock County Sheriff's Narcotics Division has revamped and is working with the Bay and Waveland police departments, as well as the DEA Task Force.

Now, when someone overdoses, Taylor said, the Narcotics Division treats the location as an active crime scene once the victim has gotten medical attention, getting search warrants when necessary, and tracking down the person who sold the drugs.

"We can track them back all the way to the source and prosecute them in federal court, as need be," Taylor said.

Before, Taylor said, "typically, we were confined to the county. Now, with the federal task force, we can track them and arrest them wherever, whether it's in Louisiana or all the way in California."

In addition, he said, "If you sell drugs and someone overdoses and dies, you will be charged with that crime, with charges that can range from manslaughter to murder."

"We really need to get the word out to the public," Taylor said. "The overdoses are really tearing the county apart right now. We have the highest number right here in Hancock County."

In fact, Taylor left federal law enforcement — he previously worked for Homeland Security — to come back to his home in Hancock County and help restore it to the way it used to be.

"I want our kids to have the same quality of life that I had growing up here," he said. "It's sad, there's so much more out there than there used to be, a lot of harsh stuff out there for our kids. Definitely, talk to your children. Educate them on the fact that every time you're using an illegal narcotic, you're putting your life in the hands of someone who may not have your best interests at heart — they're out for profit."

Col. Steven Maxwell, director of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, visited the Hancock County Sheriff's Office on Friday to meet with Narcotics Division officers.

Maxwell said the bureau's relationship with the Hancock County Sheriff's Narcotics Division and other law enforcement agencies around the state has been crucial in getting drugs off the streets and saving people's lives.

Maxwell agreed with Taylor that the prevalence of vaping has complicated matters for law enforcement.

"A lot of the oils that are being purchased and used for vaping are chemicals" that can cause harmful effects, he said. "So often, the adults as well as kids don't know what they're vaping."

Maxwell said that in addition to law enforcement agencies, the bureau is working with the state department of public health and non-profit agencies on new solutions.

He said the men and women of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, "are the boots on the ground in Hancock County — they have their finger on the pulse of what is going on in the streets."

"What the public needs to know," he said, "is that first and foremost, everyone should have Narcan (or another Naloxone product) in their first aid kit at home."

"Parents need to have their own personal medications ... in a safe, locked, secure location, and in addition to that, no one should be ingesting any medication whatsoever that was not obtained from a professional pharmacist or physician, unless it was purchased over the counter from a reputable pharmacy or business."

Hancock Sheriff Ricky Adam said the public can report suspected illegal drug activity by contacting his office at 228-466-6900 or SOTips@co.hancock.ms.us; or by calling Mississippi Coast Crime Stoppers at 1-877-787-5898.

Flag Retirement Program

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home works with local residents and the veterans services organizations to properly retire any U.S. flag that has reached the end of its service. Our program is designed to honor our national heroes, our military veterans, and to give dignity to our American Flag when it is no longer worthy of display. We strive to see that each veteran being cremated has a flag. There is no charge for this service to our veterans.

According to the United States code, Title 4, Chapter 1, Subsection 8: "The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning."

If you would like to honor a deceased veteran by donating an aged or worn flag to be properly disposed of, you may do so by delivering the flags to our funeral home located on the corner of Necaie Avenue and Main Street.

"We pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

TAKING CARE OF THE LIVING

My least favorite time of the year is upon us, summer. What with the unbearable heat and the long hurricane season, it's definitely a time for sweating.

On my Monday drive to work, I saw another familiar summer sight, a turtle crossing the road.

Luckily, as I passed, it had reached the other side and I didn't need to stop to help the turtle across.

A couple of weeks ago during a run, I saw a smashed turtle on the side of the road. It was quite the heartbreaking sight.

To be honest, I hate seeing any dead animal on the side of the road. And it always makes me a bit angry.

Humans come in, destroy their natural habitats, and then find more ways to kill them in one way or another.

Now, I do understand it's often unsafe to steer away from an animal in the road, but it can be done safely.

If it's safe to do so, I try and stop, make sure the turtle isn't injured, and then help the turtle complete its journey across the road.

STAFF COLUMN
BY Cassandra Favre

According to turtlescueleague.com, between the months of April and October, male turtles look for females and territory, and females are looking for places to nest. In the late summer and fall, baby turtles are emerging from the nests searching for water. During this time, turtles are also looking for places to hibernate.

The website lists some great tips if you encounter a turtle: First, determine if it's injured and needs medical care; second, when picking up a turtle, place your hands on either side of its shell behind the front legs and never pick up a turtle by the tail;

third, keep the turtle low to the ground when moving it so if it comes free from your grip, it will not fall and injure itself; fourth, when helping a larger turtle, gently push it forward with a blunt object; fifth, put the turtle in the direction it was heading, don't turn it around; finally, the website suggests to not relocate a turtle as they have "home ranges," territory they call home.

People always talk about preserving life and that it's precious. Well, that also includes animals and the environment. And each time I hear of an animal defending itself against some trophy hunter, my heart skips an excited beat. Sure, call me "vicious and vile," but hunting exotic and endangered animals purely for the thrill of it is absolutely evil.

Hancock History: Love and Romance during World War II

During most of World War II (WWII), Germany was confronted by the Allies (England, Russia, and the United States) on three fronts: the Eastern, Italian, and Western fronts. Many men and women of Hancock County served their country during this conflict. Love and marriage among these young patriots was a challenge, but doable. This article will describe some of their wartime experiences that occurred about eighty years ago.

Most of the young men and many of the young women enlisted in the armed services and were assigned to military training facilities like Camp Shelby, a few miles south of Hattiesburg, Mississippi. It was a time of intense emotions that often witnessed whirlwind romances of servicemen or women away from home, marrying spouses that did not come from their hometowns. Marriages were scheduled around military leaves or passes, often preceding the deployment of soldiers to a distant battlefield. Unlike texts, phone calls, and emails today, letters and photographs sustained these marriages while soldiers were serving combat duty in Europe and elsewhere.

David McDonald (1922-2009) met Luceil Smith (1922-2006) at Mississippi State College (now University). This college romance flourished, consummating with marriage at an army military base in Anniston, Alabama, in 1943.

Luceil moved to Anniston, and the couple rented an apartment there. She followed him to several military bases before Dave was deployed to Europe. Luceil then went to live with her family in Wiggins, MS, until Dave returned after the war ended.

A popular meeting place for singles on the Gulf Coast during the war was the Edgewater

Gulf Hotel (1927-1971) in Biloxi, MS. This four hundred room hotel was filled every weekend with officers and single ladies who came in groups to enjoy elegant dining in the Marine Room, an Olympic size pool, and tennis courts. On most Saturday nights there was a big band party with dancing and cocktails.

Ladies arrived on Saturday afternoon by car or train from as far as New Orleans or Mobile. The railroad had a special stop at the hotel called Edgewater Station.

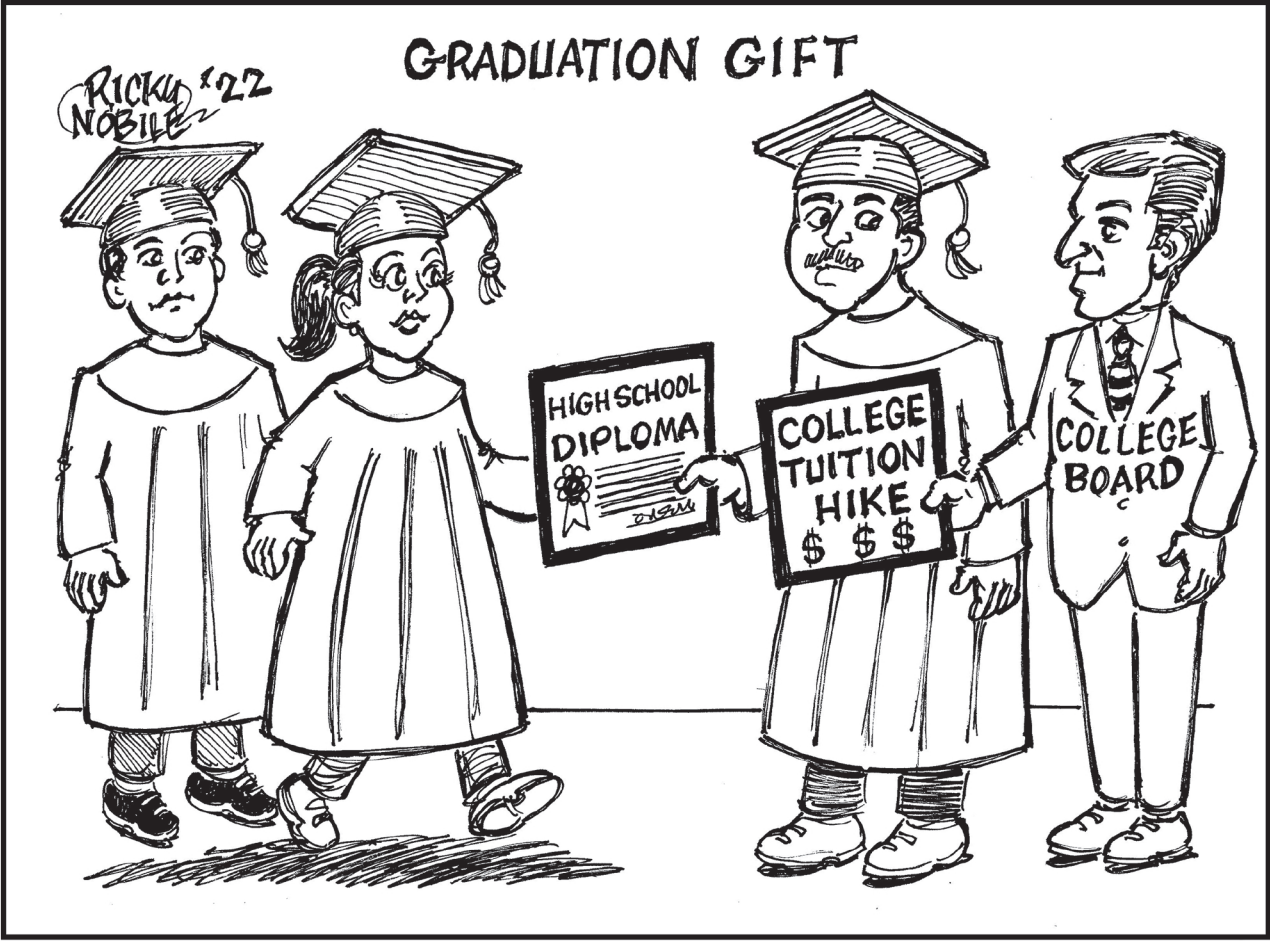

On one weekend in July of 1942, Lieutenant James "Jim" William Keating Sr. (1918-1999) and three fellow army officers from Camp Shelby drove down to the Edgewater Gulf Hotel and crammed into one room. That very weekend Bernice "Bunny" Marion Ross (1917-1995), accompanied by several Newcomb College classmates/graduates, boarded a train in New Orleans for the same hotel. A chance meeting on Sunday morning on the tennis courts began a wartime romance and courtship that resulted in marriage on July 5, 1943. Bunny and Jim enjoyed a few months of marriage before Jim was sent to North Africa in the fall of 1943.

In our next column the European Theater of WWII will be presented as well as Lt James Keating's wartime experiences fighting in the Italian Campaign at the Fourth Battle of Monte Cassino.

American Wetlands Month

May is the month to recognize and celebrate the wonderful ways wetlands enrich the environment and people. It is a time to give back to the environment by learning more about wetlands and participating in the many scheduled events. Wildlife Mississippi is proud to join with other federal, state, and private partners celebrating American Wetlands Month each May. Events are scheduled across the country to educate, involve, and engage Americans who want to better understand the value of one of Earth's vital ecosystems.

Wetlands are among the most valuable but least understood of the natural resources. They provide rich habitat for wildlife. They are places in which many animals and birds build nests and raise their young. Migrating birds, such as waterfowl, stopover in wetlands to rest and to feed. We celebrate wetlands each May when they are teeming with new animal and plant life. Wetlands benefit our communities as well. They replenish and clean drinking water supplies and reduce flood risks, provide recreational opportunities and aesthetic benefits. They serve as sites for scientific research and education, and benefit Mississippi's vast seafood industry.

Wetlands are the link between land and water, where the flow of water, the cycling of nutrients and the energy of the sun meet to produce a unique ecosystem characterized by hydrology, special soils, and vegetation. Wetlands provide numerous benefits, including habitat for flora and fauna, improved water quality, flood abatement, water storage and groundwater recharge, reduced erosion, support of fisheries, and opportunities for education and recreation. Wetlands may not be wet year-round. In fact, some of the most important wetlands are seasonally-dry transition zones.

Unfortunately, wetlands have been misunderstood for many years, often viewed as wastelands to be drained and converted to other uses. But if wetlands disappear, water will not be as clean, fish and bird populations will suffer, and the frequency and severity of floods will increase. Americans have begun to recognize the value of wetlands, and the rate of loss has declined dramatically over the last 30 years. It is important that we continue to stop the loss of wetlands and begin to achieve a net gain through better management and restoration.

Many communities are now exploring how to best protect their existing wetland resources and restore some of the thousands of acres that have been lost or degraded. And many of the ones that do are seeing a reduction in flood insurance rates. Active citizens are working to

Hancock Narcotics Division arrests two for meth

ECHO STAFF

Hancock County Sheriff’s Narcotics Agents last week arrested two area men for alleged felony drug activities.
Agents on Friday encountered Alton Terry, 46, and Kenneth Bradford, 64, both of Bayside Park, in the 9100 block of Harbor Drive in the Shoreline Park community, Sheriff Ricky Adam said in a press release Monday.
“A search of the vehicle resulted in the recovery of felony amounts of methamphetamine ‘ice’ and various weapons,” Adam said. “Based on the investigation, narcotics agents executed search warrants on East Clay Street and Jasper Street in the Bayside Park Community.”

Both men were transported to the Hancock County Adult Detention Center, Adam said.
Terry was charged with felony possession of a controlled substance, being a felon in possession of a weapon, and possession of paraphernalia, Adam said, and was released on bonds totaling $35,000.
Bradford was charged with possession of paraphernalia and two counts of felony possession of a controlled substance. He remained incarcerated as of Monday afternoon in lieu of $40,500 in bonds, according to jail records.

“Our Narcotics Division continues to pursue those who choose to distribute narcotics in our communities,” Adam said. “We are in a united effort with our residents to keep these dangerous drugs off our streets.”
The Hancock County Narcotics Division is comprised of agents from the Hancock County Sheriff’s Office and the Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments.

Adam said the public can report drug activity by contacting his office at 228-466-6900 or SOTips@co.hancock.ms.us; or by calling Mississippi Coast Crime Stoppers at 1-877-787-5898.

• LIVING

Sure, everyone is seemingly all for preserving life, except when it comes to destroying nature to build boring subdivisions with their little boxes; constructing highways that are seldom maintained anyway; and building more office space that will lie vacant more often than it is filled.
But remember though, according to the Bible lesson from my Sunday School days, God told Noah to build an ark for the animals and his family alone before the flood destroyed the rest.
Of course, it shouldn’t surprise me there is so little regard for the environment and its animals. There is little regard for humans. If there was, there would be reasonable and affordable access to healthcare; wages that reflect cost of living increases; affordable access to childcare; better means of taking care of the elderly; affordable housing; better access to mental health treatment; affordable access to higher education; better treatment for drug addictions; etc., etc., etc.

For example, it’s mind boggling to me that GoFundMe is one of the most used sources to fund healthcare. So, if people are going to give money to these fundraisers, why do they not want their tax dollars possibly going to support a healthcare system for all? But then again, there wouldn’t be the chance for tax breaks, fancy fundraising dinners, and opportunities to pose for photographs with the afflicted individual.
When it comes to education, my tax dollars are already used for an education system that I don’t have any stake in since I’m not having children. But, if my tax dollars were also used to fund the next four years of school for those who wish to go to college, I can’t say that I would mind that. I’m all for those who want to to obtain a higher education to be able to do so.
Once some of these problems are addressed and people stop judging and looking down on those who are less fortunate, then I might believe that people care about humanity.

So, these are just some of the thoughts I have when I’m on an evening run and see the squirrels or a rare bunny running about. And then it morphs into thinking about the world’s problems, the hypocrisy of those who claim to care about lives, and any other existential circumstance I can think of.
If anyone does come across an injured animal, there are two coastal licensed wildlife rehabbers: Wild at Heart Rescue, Inc. in Vancleave; and Wildlife Care and Rescue Center Inc. in Biloxi. Both are listed as an all-species rescue/rehab.
“You do live once, and I feel like if I’m able to make a difference on this planet and leave it just a little better than I found it, then I’ve done my job” — Bindi Irwin.

The family would like to thank Dr. Michael Payment and Danielle Hoda, Memorial Hospital, Deaconess Home Care, Canon Hospice, Glory Faye,

CHARLES HARRY GRAY

Charles Harry Gray of Bay St. Louis, MS, passed away on Friday, April 29, 2022.

A native of Waynesboro, MS, Charles was born on March 5, 1934. After graduation from Waynesboro High School, he attended Mississippi Southern College, currently the University of Southern Mississippi. After college, he served in the 15th Infantry Regiment of the US Army, 1956-1958. He spent most of this time in Europe, which allowed him to travel throughout the continent.

Charles often said that after his term in the service in the late 1950s “I went to New Orleans to a New Year’s party and stayed for 43 years.” In New Orleans, Charles met his life partner, Jim Plauché, owner of Corinne Dunbar’s Restaurant on St. Charles Avenue. Charles ran the iconic Creole Restaurant with Jimmy, regularly serving locals and luminary guests such as Walt Disney, Ernest Hemingway, Sophie Tucker, Liberace, and the Andrews Sisters.

Charles and Jimmy loved to take ocean cruises, and from the early ’70s until Jimmy’s death in 2000, the couple took a multitude of cruises and visited 159 countries.

After Jimmy and Charles closed Corinne Dunbar’s in 1984, they bought historic Beachwood Hall in Bay St. Louis, which Charles spotted when sailing from New Orleans to Key West.

Wanting to learn the history of the 1840s Greek Revival home, Charles visited the Hancock County Historical Society (HCHS), which had only six members who didn’t allow “just anyone” to rummage through their files. Charles joined the Society and was immediately appointed Vice President.

For Charles’s first act, he petitioned the State to officially name a maritime battle that had taken place in local waters in the War of 1812. When the “Battle of the Bay of St. Louis” designation was approved, the Historical Society held a celebration that included the firing of a cannon. “After that,” says Gray, “Our membership more than doubled, from seven to sixteen.”

Through the following forty-plus years, Charles served in every capacity possible at the Society and was eventually appointed Executive Director for Life, a position he actively and proudly held until the end.

Charles’s contributions to the preservation of Hancock County history were many and profound: He worked to increase HCHS membership numbers (there are currently around 500 members nationwide). He was a key player in acquiring HCHS’s headquarters, the Kate Lobrano House on Cue Street, where the Society stores and maintains its ever-growing archives. Charles spearheaded an ongoing and massive digital preservation project of all materials at the Society. With other volunteers he organized and hosted events like the popular annual Cedar Rest Cemetery Tour on Halloween and always, with his darling dogs Maxwell and Lexi, presented as the fascinating and erudite, welcoming, knowledgeable face of the Hancock County Historical Society.

Charles Gray was witty, charming, and legendary for his ability, as one friend put it, to “spin a yarn”; for many years he was also an in-demand public speaker—always ready to educate on the history of Hancock County. He dressed impeccably, enjoyed his afternoon tea every day, loved antiques, and was an avid collector of fine china and art. An adventurer with boundless energy, he traveled frequently to Europe and even moved to Scotland for a time in 2018. Above all, Charles was a loyal and cherished friend.

Charles was preceded in death by James “Jimmy” Plauché, his parents Harry H. Gray and Mollie Mae Copeland Gray, and his sister Martha Ann Gray Love.

A memorial tribute to Charles will be held at the Hancock County Historical Society on Cue Street on Saturday, June 4th at 2pm.

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home is honored to serve the family and friends of Charles Harry Gray.

band, Larry J. Smith, Sr.; second husband, Charlie Scianna; parents, Rufus and Maggie Lusich; brother, Donald J. Lusich and step-son, Peter James Scianna.

Choosing Hope

By REV. C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN

C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN.

Two recent experiences have combined to provide a reminder of a great truth about life.

One, was a visit to the small town where I grew up, to gather with about 40 cousins and their spouses at a family reunion. All of us are descendants of a large family. Over the years we have lived in many places. There were people present from both coasts as well as many points in between. Our lives are very diverse. We hold various understandings about spirituality, politics, cultural reality, and much more. We are about as diverse as the modern society in which we live. However, that was not the focus of our time together.

We enjoyed a great event. We talked. We remembered. We looked at old pictures. We gathered around musicians and sang old songs which were part of our shared heritage. On the last full day of the event we went to the family cemetery and held a memorial remembering our ancestors, many of whom rest in that sacred space. It was a holy time, and it was a time of joy. We discovered that even with all our different life paths, there remains something which binds us together. There are memories and moments of grace which continue to give us community even with all the differences which now characterize our lives.

The other event came from the reading of a book. Good Enough, a devotional guide by Kate Bowler and Jessica Richie, was a reminder that life, with all its twists, turns, joys, and sorrows, can continue to hold hope for those who will seek it. Life and loss compel us to imagine hope in fresh ways. According to the authors, "Acknowledging that 'this will never be' is the precursor to imagining what might happen next."

All of us have faced challenges in life. Disappointments come. Loved ones are lost. Financial hardship can be real. Plans go wrong. People we trust may betray us. To be discouraged is a part of the human experience. However, none of this has to be the last word. To re-imagine hope is the work of those who refuse to allow grief to govern their lives. Please do not see this attitude as denial of pain, or as an unrealistic "pie in the sky" approach to the human experience. That is not the case.

What is true is that while human beings do not always control what happens to them, they do have the capacity to decide how they will respond to their circumstances. Being reunited with distant and diverse family members was an experience of hope. It may have been a small glimmer, but it was real, and it was restorative. Remembering that hope can be imagined in fresh ways, and being willing to pursue it, can open unanticipated vistas of possibility for a life of grace and peace. The question is, will we choose it? It is worth considering.

Leverett leaves a looming legacy in SSC track & field

Saint Stanislaus distance runner Keegan Leverett in stride at the Class 3A state championship meet on April 30.

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

On Saturday, April 30, Saint Stanislaus distance runner Keegan Leverett ran his last race as a Rock-A-Chaw in the Class 3A track and field state championships at Pearl High School.

Leverett, who has been running since the third grade, commented, “It is hard to believe that high school competition is over. My mother is the person who got me started running when I was younger. When I started to run and I was competing, it felt good to win. My mother loves to run and I picked it up from her. She always told me that you get out of it what you put into it. It is a great feeling to know that you are outworking others.”

Leverett will graduate on Saturday, May 21, as the most decorated runner in the history of both cross country and track and field at the school. And, that is a tall feat considering the history of both programs at the all-boys Catholic school.

In cross country, the program has claimed three state championships in 1991, 2012, and 2014 with numerous top five finishes to go along with the titles.

Names like Brian Brooks, Scott Black, and Kyle Lewis still echo throughout the annals of the sport. All three were individual champions and All-State in the sport. Lewis went on to a All-SEC career at Ole Miss. But, Leverett is a four-time All-State cross country runner, three-time individual cross country champion, and was selected the Mississippi Gatorade Player of the Year in Cross Country this year. He also set the school record in the 5K with a time of 15:37.

Leverett’s cross country coach, DP Daigle, stated, “Keegan has been special ever since he set foot on campus. He was All-State during his school years. Keegan is the type of young man that you love to coach and he makes my job easy. His hard work and dedication are second to none. It has been a joy to coach him through the years and I am so proud of all that he has accomplished.”

In track and field, there have been great runners at SSC with names like Nathan Tycer, Vince Moran, Shannon Garrett, Chris Reisch, Andy Brown, Kyle Lewis and so many others.

But, on the track, Keegan is just as dominant. In 2021, Leverett won the 1600m and 3200m runs at the Class 4A state championships and anchored the 4x800m relay that ran a school record time of 8:46.63.

During his senior season, Leverett had his sights set on gold medals in the rare trifecta of the 800m, 1600m, and 3200m runs along with an anchor leg in the 4x800m relay.

On April 30, Keegan delivered on the promise he made to himself winning all three races and anchoring the relay.

He helped lead the relay team to a bronze medal and a season best time of 8:57.64. In the 3200m run, Keegan set a new Class 3A state meet record with a time of 9:40.69. He repeated the feat in the 1600m run with a new Class 3A state meet record of 4:23.46. Then, in the 800m run, he turned in a time of 1:57.78 which was just .55 seconds off the Class 3A state record.

However, the real irony of those blistering times was the fact that he set school records prior to the state championship meet that were faster.

A week prior on Friday, April 22, at the Class 3A South State meet at St. Andrew’s, he set a new school record in the 3200m run with a time of 9:18.15.

On Saturday, April

2, at the Mobile Meet of Champions, Keegan set a new school record in the 1600m run with a time 4:17.91.

And, at the Division 8-3A meet at Pass Christian, he set a new school record in the 800m of 1:58.49 before he set it again at the state championships.

Leverett’s high school track and field coach, Christian Baehr ‘03, stated, “Keegan has been one of hardest working athletes I’ve ever had the pleasure to coach. His self-discipline around running has paid off immensely. Not only did he dominate cross country, but he carried that mindset over to track this season. He was determined to set new personal and school records. Ultimately, he did and in the process he set two state classification records. I fully expect this young man to elevate any collegiate team he decides to run for.”

Leverett recalled, “When I started at Saint Stanislaus, it took me two weeks to become the top runner when I was in the seventh grade. I regressed somewhat during the eight and ninth grades, but when I became a sophomore I had a change of mindset not to lose again. That change has motivated me to this point. I run as hard as I can for as long as I can. That is my mindset.”

Keegan let it slip that he has found track and field to be more enjoyable than cross country because it is a more consistent surface than the trails.

Leverett talked about his coaches, “Coach Daigle and Coach Baehr gave been tremendous. They are different coaches but both have pushed me to succeed.”

In the classroom, Keegan’s tenacity to be at the top is just as determined. He is the top-ranked student in his class.

Leverett added, “I want to study medicine in college and eventually go to medical school. I am not sure what type of medicine I want to practice yet, but I am just 18 so I have time to figure that out. I do have a desire to run in college if it aligns with my academic goals. I love to run. I love to learn. I do both with the same desire and that is to be the best.”

When Keegan is on the track or the trail, he enjoys it by getting lost in a song that he puts on repeat. That’s the one thing he wants to pass on to younger runners. He stated, “Find something to motivate you to enjoy the run. Put it on repeat and get lost in it. Let it drive you.”

Clarkdale sweeps SSC on diamond

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The top-seeded Saint Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws met Clarkdale in the third round of the Class 3A baseball state playoffs. Both teams were on streaks of their own with Clarkdale displaying solid pitching while SSC was on fire at the plate.

In the series, the arms of Clarkdale won the battles. On Friday, Clarkdale limited the Rocks to just four hits and no runs as Clarkdale won the first game in a best-of-three series 3-0 at the Brother Philip Memorial Athletic Complex.

Both teams were scoreless through two innings of play. Clarkdale got one run on two hits and a sacrifice fly in the top of the third inning to take a 1-0 lead.

They added to that lead with two runs in the top of the fourth inning on a solo homerun and a RBI single.

The Rocks left five runners stranded and only got four hits in the game. Hugh LeMasters and Jackson Montjoy got two hits each including a double by both.

Brandon Rhodes took the loss on the mound which was his first of the season. He allowed 5 hits and fanned four batters.

On Saturday, the Rocks made the 3 1/2 hour ride northeast to Clarkdale for the Game 2. Clarkdale again silenced the Rocks’ bats allowing only two hits in a 7-2 win to sweep SSC out of the playoffs.

Tanner Reinike and Ethan Jacobi got the two hits for the Rocks. In the second inning the Rocks had runners at first and third. The runner on first got Clarkdale occupied with a rundown and the runner on third stole home for the first run.

In the sixth inning, Reinike hit into a RBI fielder’s choice for the second run.

Reinike took the loss on the mound for SSC throwing 4 1/3 innings allowing four hits, four earned runs, five walks, and struck out three.

SSC head coach Brad Corley commented on the series, “Credit Clarkdale for putting the two quality arms on the mound. We just could not get anything going offensively in the series. Clarkdale pitched very well and their defense played solid behind the pitcher. We were unable to get the timely hit when we needed it. They were better than we were

this weekend.”

The Rocks advanced to the state quarter-finals for at least the fifth time this season. The Rocks accomplished this feat previously in 2010, 2013, 2015, and 2019.

During the course of the season, the Rocks put up some jaw-dropping numbers in 30 games played. For the season, SSC batted .304 as a team with a .910 OPS (on-base plus slugging) with 240 hits, 47 doubles, 23 homeruns, and scored 287 runs.

Corley added, “I am extremely proud of our team this year. We had an incredible run. Anytime you win your division and advance to the state quarter-finals, it is a successful season. Also, I am very proud of our seniors and the effort that they gave to the program the last four years. They will be missed greatly but the legacy that they leave will endure.”

The Rocks end the 2022 season with an overall record of 19-11 with the Division 8-3A title.

was tied for sixth overall in the match with a two-day total of 164. Others playing in the tournament include Brody Blaker, Kendall Desporte, Clay Hall, and Collin Wahl. SSC head coach

Mark Logan commented, “Overall, I believe we had a successful golf season. We finished second in Division 8-3A and then placed fourth at the Class 3A state tournament. Mitchell Thompson shot an 82 at the Division meet and was All-Division. At the state tournament, Jack Lawson earned All-State honors with a two-day total of 154 for third place overall. We have a young team with a freshman, three eighth graders, and two seniors. I can’t say enough about our two seniors - Brody Blaker and Kendall Desporte. They provided leadership, work ethic, and direction for our younger players throughout the season. We wish our seniors the very best and are looking forward to next season with all of our young players who are returning.”

Shore Thing: Rock Stars

Shore Thing Fishing Report
BY CPT. SONNY SCHINDLER

This wind is making our fishing trips challenging to say the least. Some days we can hide from it, but depending on the direction and the severity of the wind, your options are very limited. I was trying to reach my buddy and partner in our Charter service, Capt Matt Tusa one breezy afternoon. He’s usually quick to reply, especially since I knew he wasn’t on the water in the 30 mph winds. After a few minutes, the pictures started rolling in. It was seemingly endless fish pics of his kids Cyrus and Fiona, along with his wife Lauren. He eventually sent a message saying, “most fun I’ve had in a while, we are having a ball”!

Fiona, Lauren, and Cyrus enjoying a windy day fishing the rocks in Back Bay.

Turns out the Tusa family took some of Matt’s ultra light rods, a bag of dead shrimp and their golf cart down to a rock jetty along Back Bay. Matt said they got a bite every cast. They were mostly catching smaller black drum and redfish. He did say Lauren hooked into something on the light tackle that never stopped. As best as Matt could tell, the fish were stacked against the rocks and in the calm water out of the high winds. Between the smaller Rods and the steady action, it sounded like a very productive windy afternoon. Sometimes you gotta play the hand you’re dealt. Getting outta the wind and letting the kids have some fun outdoors is always a win. So here’s to one of my families, The Tusa’s. The Rock Stars!!!

to reappear in the Spring. I want to capture a bit of that energy in this work. The plants quiet struggle to attract, compete and survive and the splendid blooms and fragrances they give off inspire me," says Janet. Botanical art is of course nothing new, dating over 4,000 years to Egypt and Mesopotamia. Watch these paintings dust off the old classics from memories of kayaking trips to the Mississippi Gulf Coast barrier islands: Cat and Horn. She captures the casual spontaneity and intense coloration that sun and sand bring out in a landscape. The pieces are not realistic but abstracted by both the artist and her memory. She calls this series, "Landscapes."

- Improves quality of life
- Attracts new development and residents
- Raises property values
- Stable investment in economic downturns
- “Marina revenue is based on 60 boat slips available for leasing and assumes full occupancy,” the report states. “It also includes sales from fuel and supplies, daily boat dockage by transient boaters, fees from the use of the boat dock ramp, sales at the marina, and operational fees. The amount of annual revenue for this project is expected to be $977,483.” The total project cost is estimated to be about $12.5 million and the city will be responsible for a 20 percent match. The project will also be completed in phases. Smith said the monies received from legislators are a “great boost for the city of Waveland.” “The board and I have strived to help our downtown recover from Hurricane Katrina,” he said. “The potential addition of a harbor is already spurring interest in a condominium project, cafe, and boutique hotel, which are in the design phase now. Thanks to House Speaker Philip Gunn, State Representative Brent Anderson, and Senator Philip Moran for their help with this important project.”

Meet Gemma.
This adorable girl is bright eyed and bushy tailed, and cute as a bug, with eyes that say it all! When this precious 7 year old, American Staffordshire Terrier mix was brought in by Animal Control, we were hopeful of a reunion, as she was microchipped. Sadly, every attempt to contact her owner was fruitless. She loves treats, and will happily sit for one. She is low key and so super sweet. She walks great on a leash and harness, and loves to romp-n-play with her doggie pals in our exercise yard. Gemma is house trained, and may even be crate trained, and she will be a wonderful, well behaved baby girl and companion for any person, couple or family. If you would like to be Gemma's forever family, please come by during our visiting hours, Mon-Fri 10am-4pm (Tues 12pm-4pm), or call our front desk at 228-466-4516 to schedule an appointment. Please bring your dog(s) and children to ensure compatibility.
